THE VERTICAL & SWAN HEADJOINTS BY FLUTE LAB PRICE LIST AUGUST 2010

Prices are manufacturers' suggested list prices and are subject to change.

What it is

The Swan Neck Headjoint is a flute headjoint that has a bend of approximately 40 degrees. It is handmade from sterling silver, with a handcut embouchure. It comes in a small, very light instrument case, which also contains a thumb rest. The thumb rest simply clicks on your flute and you can leave it there.

What it does

The Swan Neck Headjoint turns the strenuous position for playing the flute into a relaxed one. With the Swan Neck Headjoint, you will feel much less stress on your right shoulder, your neck and your left shoulder. The Swan Neck Headjoint takes your flute out of the danger zone and brings it into the easy zone.

What it feels like

Easy, Relaxed, Effortless, No pain. There is also a feel of solidness to the Swan Neck Headjoint. When you play an ordinary flute, the asymmetry in your posture goes right down to your feet. When you play a swan neck flute, you will feel your feet planted firmly to the ground.

The logic of The Vertical Headjoint is so self-evident, it needs no explanation. Have you ever noted the easy playing position of clarinet and recorder. We are providing The Vertical Headjoint because flutists who thought they would never play the flute again, are now playing every day-thanks to The Vertical Headjoint.

The Vertical Headjoint for flute is hand-crafted from sterling silver with a handcut embouchure. It comes in a sturdy wooden box, with a thumb rest and if necessary, a left hand support. The top part of The Vertical Headjoint can be adjusted to suit your playing style. The set contains all you need to convert your flute into a vertical flute. All it takes is to snap on the hand rests and slide the headjoint into the tenon.

The Swan Neck Headjoint $2,595.
The Vertical Headjoint $2,995.

C# Trill Key Fingerings

1. B to C# - both octaves, 1st and 2nd, speak accurately and clearly.
2. C to C# - the C# trill offers ease for this trill, normally trilled with the first finger of the left hand.
3. High F# to G# - using the C# trill key for this trill is easier and more in tune.
4. High G to Ab – using the C# trill key produces far more accurate pitch than the conventional method of using the first trill key.
5. High G to A – this is a winner! An impractical trill on the standard flute, the C# trill key makes this trill a breeze – and accurately in tune! Finger high G, then trill the C# trill key and the upper (first) trill key simultaneously.
6. High Ab to Bb – finger Ab and trill the C# trill key, upper trill key, and lower trill key, instead of the standard fingering of both trill keys, for a more in tune trill.
7. A large variety of tremolos are possible. For example: finger A, Bb, B and C in succession while trilling the C# trill key. This will give you a continuous tremolo to C# (Db). By combining the C# trill key and other trill keys, other tremolos are possible.

How the Split E Key or G “Donut” Insert Works

High E has always been considered a problem note on the flute. It is easily cracked and tends to be quite sharp, especially in forte passages. Ideally, the high E should be fingered with the two G keys (ring finger on your left hand) split so that the bottom key (of the connected keys) is down and the other is up. The split E accomplishes this by dividing the normally connected G key structure so that it will work simultaneously for G yet independently for high E. The G “Donut” insert is a popular alternative to the split E Key. It can be installed as an option on a new flute and is also available for flutes after originally purchased.

1. Rapid slurs from high A to high E speak easily with no special fingerings.
2. Quick leaping passages from lower notes to high E and back present little or no problem as the high E speaks freely.
