LefreQue—

The LefreQue is a sound bridge that will make all wind instruments sound better. It consists of a bridge that is built by two metal elements that will repair the sound breaches that occur by different sections of a wind instrument. The shape and material have been carefully selected and thought out to obtain the best possible bridge between the instrument parts and to achieve a universal fit. Only a real LefreQue will guarantee the optimization of your instrument.

The Rhino Resonator: Rhino flute resonator gives you a master performance by increasing sound and speed projection of all notes, making the execution of high and low notes easier, and allowing the vibration and sound move uniformly through the flute.

Bass Flute Thigh Crutch—

This easy to use crutch helps support the weight of the bass flute. It rests on the player's leg helping to balance the instrument and distribute the weight of the bass flute.

C# Trill Key Fingerings

1. B to C# - both octaves, 1st and 2nd, speak accurately and clearly.
2. C to C# - the C# trill offers ease for this trill, normally trilled with the first finger of the left hand.
3. High F# to G# - using the C# trill key for this trill is easier and more in tune.
4. High G to Ab – using the C# trill key produces far more accurate pitch than the conventional method of using the first trill key.
5. High G to A – this is a winner! An impractical trill on the standard flute, the C# trill key makes this trill a breeze – and accurately in tune! Finger high G, then trill the C# trill key and the upper (first) trill key simultaneously.
6. High Ab to Bb – finger Ab and trill the C# trill key, upper trill key, and lower trill key, instead of the standard fingering of both trill keys, for a more in tune trill.
7. A large variety of tremolos are possible. For example: finger A, Bb, B and C in succession while trilling the C# trill key. This will give you a continuous tremolo to C# (Db). By combining the C# trill key and other trill keys, other tremolos are possible.

How the Split E Key or G “Donut” Insert Works

High E has always been considered a problem note on the flute. It is easily cracked and tends to be quite sharp, especially in forte passages. Ideally, the high E should be fingered with the two G keys (ring finger on your left hand) split so that the bottom key (of the connected keys) is down and the other is up. The split E accomplishes this by dividing the normally connected G key structure so that it will work simultaneously for G yet independently for high E. The G “Donut” insert is a popular alternative to the split E Key. It can be installed as an option on a new flute and is also available for flutes after originally purchased.

1. Rapid slurs from high A to high E speak easily with no special fingerings.
 2. Quick leaping passages from lower notes to high E and back present little or no problem as the high E speaks freely.

THE VERTICAL & SWAN HEADJOINTS BY FLUTE LAB

Prices are manufacturers' suggested list prices and are subject to change.

What it is

The Swan Neck Headjoint is a flute headjoint that has a bend of approximately 40 degrees. It is handmade from sterling silver, with a handcut embouchure. It comes in a small, very light instrument case, which also contains a thumb rest. The thumb rest simply clicks on your flute and you can leave it there.

What it does

The Swan Neck Headjoint turns the strenuous position for playing the flute into a relaxed one. With the Swan Neck Headjoint, you will feel much less stress on your right shoulder, your neck and your left shoulder. The Swan Neck Headjoint takes your flute out of the danger zone and brings it into the easy zone.

What it feels like

Easy, Relaxed, Effortless, No pain. There is also a feel of solidness to the Swan Neck Headjoint. When you play an ordinary flute, the asymmetry in your posture goes right down to your feet. When you play a swan neck flute, you will feel your feet planted firmly to the ground.

The logic of The Vertical Headjoint is so self-evident, it needs no explanation. Have you ever noted the easy playing position of clarinet and recorder. We are providing The Vertical Headjoint because flutists who thought they would never play the flute again, are now playing every day-thanks to The Vertical Headjoint.

The Vertical Headjoint for flute is handcrafted from sterling silver with a handcut embouchure. It comes in a custom case, with a thumb rest and if necessary, a left hand support. The top part of The Vertical Headjoint can be adjusted to suit your playing style. The set contains all you need to convert your flute into a vertical flute. All it takes is to snap on the hand rests and slide the headjoint into the tenon.

	MSRP	MAP
The Swan Neck Headjoint	$2,595.	$2,395
The Vertical Headjoint	$2,995.	$2,795

THE ROBERT DICK GLISSANDO HEADJOINT

Prices are manufacturers' suggested list prices and are subject to change.

Designed by Robert Dick, the Glissando Headjoint is a telescoping headjoint with a high performance contemporary cut head-joint sliding inside a carrier tube. Two 'wings' extend from the lip plate and comfortably embrace the flutist's cheeks. Moving the flute to the right slides the headjoint from its 'home position' (all the way in) and extends the length of the flute.

Renowned for producing the trademark Altus sound, this headjoint provides vibrant warmth with excellent projection. Its pure tonal center allows the artist great flexibility with an infinite color palette.

Z-Cut:

With a more rectangular embouchure hole with minimal over and undercutting, this headjoint produces a quick response without sacrificing flexibility or control. The sound is open and free with a darker tonal color.

V-Cut:

Altus has created one of its most powerful headjoints capable of producing an exceptional tonal depth without sacrificing flexibility. Featuring a high front wall and steep angled lip plate, this headjoint performs at the cutting edge of modern headjoint design.

Headjoint Designs

MZ-9: A modern version of a traditional style headjoint. Characterized by a centered, deep sound with generous resistance and focused, laser-like projection. Works well for those who use air speed to control and direct their sound.

MZ-10: Allows the player to put a large volume of air through the flute, achieving a rich and powerful sound. Characterized by plenty of lower partials anchoring the sound with a full harmonic spectrum. Flexible and responsive with a wide range of tonal and color possibilities.

MZ-11: A more traditional style-sound in a modern headjoint design. Characterized by an open, dark and fluid sound with fewer high harmonics. Comfortable resistance with easily controlled dynamics and a round, warm response.

MX-1: A pure and warm tone with a high concentration of mid-range harmonics. The dense, penetrating sound is consistent throughout all registers. With an ample amount of resistance, this style provides a solid response to articulation.

MX-2: A free and comfortable feeling with a wide range of harmonics. The sound is complex with immense tonal color variety. Articulation is crisp and clean. Able to accommodate a high volume of air, this style provides expansive projection with great pitch control.

Founded by skilled craftsmen who had the simple desire to create uncompromising quality flutes. It is their commitment to detail that makes a Sankyo Flute so special. Even the most minute parts are beautifully crafted by hand and represent the Japanese culture of perfection. The secret behind this craftsmanship is that nothing is neglected in the manufacturing process. Each flute begins with developing the unique composition of their metals and materials and ends with hand-polishing.
